SHOULD YOUR HOME'S SELLING PRICE BE MADE PUBLIC?

Canada's competition commissioner says any member of the public should be able to find out a home's sale price. Should you care whether someone knows how much you paid for your home?

Some people think that information should be made public, while others believe that constitutes an invasion of privacy. Why should a stranger have access to that kind of information? This issue is a big bone of contention and now the basis of a lawsuit launched by Ottawa's Commissioner of Competition against the Toronto Real Estate Board. The commissioner holds that anyone should be able to go onto a real estate brokerage's website and see any price of a recently sold home in their neighbourhood. In Ontario, real estate agents can view prices through their local MLS system, but members of the public cannot. In Canada, only Nova Scotia lets everyone see this information, while in the United States, access is for the most part universal.

More of my clients are asking if there is a way to keep the price they paid for their home off the title records that are accessible by anyone.

It can be done if you make arrangements to pay the land transfer tax before closing. This way you keep the price you paid off the title.

The competition commissioner believes that if sold prices were publicly available, buyers could figure out what to offer on a home themselves and would not need to employ a real estate agent. In my view, it wouldn't change anything because there are many varied reasons why a home sells for a particular price, For example:

- Two houses on the same street, the same size, built by the same builder, may have different views and layouts, which can make a big difference in their curb appeal.
- The price is affected by seller motivations. One vendor may have to sell quickly because she has bought a house, or has had a change of life circumstance, whether through death, marriage breakup, or job relocation.

MiWay wants to hire 27 new drivers for 2015

MiWay has asked the city of Mississauga for about $1.5 million to hire 27 transit operators this year as the municipality's departmental budget presentations started today at city hall.

Geoff Marinoff, the city's director of transit, walked councillors through MiWay's 2015 budget request Monday morning. The transit department was one of four, including Mississauga Fire & Emergency Services, recreation and Mississauga Library, to make deputations with more scheduled for tomorrow.

The 27 full-time employees will be bus drivers as MiWay steadily continues to increase service. MiWay has added about 125,000 service hours since 2010 and are planning for 1,442,083 service hours in 2015, about an additional 40,000 over 2014.

MiWay will need an additional $3.3 million in 2015, bringing its total operating budget to about $164 million with more than $102 million in revenue this year. About $1.5 million in new revenue is expected from a projected two per cent ridership increase.

Should Your Home's Selling Price Be Made Public?

- A history of sewage backups could affect a selling price, or whether the house backs onto a park or ravine, or is close to a hydro tower.
- What about a wind farm that has just been announced as coming to your area, a crazy neighbour, or a halfway house located on the same block?

In the U.S., sold prices have been available for years. A study compiled by the National Association of Realtors found that 89 per cent of deals done in 2011 were handled by real estate agents. This figure was much higher than it had been before the Internet came into common use.

Before the lawyers make too much money fighting over privacy, my hope is that this issue can be settled amicably and that buyers and sellers continue to receive all the information they need, whichever way they might try to buy or sell a home.

Tips For A Successful Open House

Hosting an open house is a valuable exercise in the home selling process, so it is important to do it right, says Costa Pouloupoulos, president of the Ontario Real Estate Association. "Just as visitors are expected to follow certain etiquette when entering an open house, hosts of open houses have their own set of rules to follow."

To leave a good impression with visitors, Pouloupoulos recommends the following tips to homeowners hosting an open house:

- Leave: Visitors won't feel as comfortable exploring the home with you present. If you can't leave, try to be as inconspicuous as possible to give visitors an opportunity to experience the home.

- No pets: Cats, dogs & other animals should be out of the house and any pet smells should be eliminated as much as possible. Any visible cages & pet dishes should appear spotless.
- Keep it clean: A clean home suggests that the home is well cared for.
- Clear the drive: Give your visitors somewhere to park, especially if street parking is not available or hard to come by.

You're Golden! So Make It Easier To Manage Your Taxes

Even in the Golden Years when so many demands have subsided, our taxes must be paid. So why not make the process as easy and as beneficial as possible? The following tips will assist you:

File your return

You have to file your return to be entitled to most federal and provincial credits and benefits, such as the GST/HST credit. To make filing easy this year, why not file online? It's fast, easy, and secure. If you file online and sign up for direct deposit, you could get your refund in as little as eight business days. Go to www.cra.gc.ca/get-ready to get the information you need.

Sign up for My Account

My Account is the Canada Revenue Agency's convenient and secure online service for individuals. You can access an ever-increasing range of tax-related transactions, including:

- changing your address;
- checking the status of your return;
- changing your marital status;
- verifying your Tax-Free Savings Account contribution room;
- signing up for direct deposit.

Take those tax savings

- Pension income splitting: You may be able to split up to 50% of your eligible pension income with your spouse or common-law partner to lower your combined taxes.

- Medical expenses amount: Claim all eligible expenses paid by you and your spouse or common-law partner. This includes prescription drugs, medical devices, and expenses related to special dietary needs. Remember that you can claim your eligible expenses paid for any 12-month period ending in the year, and not claimed in the previous year.

- Disability amount: If you or your spouse, or common-law partner has a severe and prolonged impairment in physical or mental functions, and meet certain conditions, you may be entitled to claim the disability amount and other related credits and benefits. To find out if you are eligible, complete Form T2201, Disability Tax Credit Certificate, and have it certified by a qualified practitioner. Then send the certified form to the Disability Tax Credit Unit at your tax centre. You can send the form any time during the year.

Decluttering Your Home Puts $$ In Your Pocket

It is a proven fact that a clean clutter free house will sell faster and for more money than a cluttered house. With faster paced life styles, buyers are demanding more from a seller than ever before, a repair free home is every buyers dream.

When a buyer comes to view your house they want to see clear of your junk, workable living space with neutral décor amongst other things. In most cases you have one opportunity to make that first impression. Your house may be in great condition and well built, yet simple clutter, excess old furniture, overloaded closets, plain old junk everywhere create a perception of chaos, confusion, even disorder.

The purchase decision is an emotional as well as an intellectual one; Decisions to purchase one house instead of another are based on many different factors. When buyers see clutter and junk everywhere they may imagine that the house may have been neglected with more to repair than meets the eye. This perception may drive the homes true market value down.

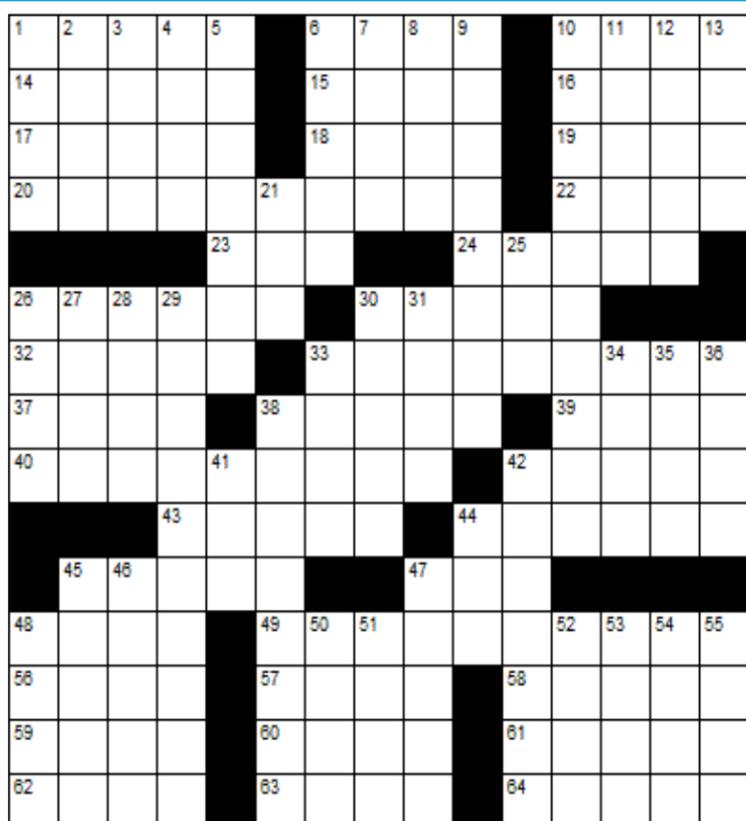

Decluttering is an essential part of your preparation and goes hand in hand with your big move. Before you list your house on the market, take a walk around, look at it through the eyes of the buyer, rent a dumpster; throw out old junk and accumulated useless items. If it has been in a box for 2 years chances are you really have no use for it.

Restage your furniture; staging is a simple task you can accomplish on your own without hiring a professional, You can create a whole new look easily.

Simple Recipe: Martha Stewart Plum Cake

Ingredients:

- 3/4 cup (1 1/2 sticks) unsalted butter, room temperature, plus more
- 1 1/2 cups plus 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour (spooned and leveled)
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup packed light-brown sugar
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 3 large eggs
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- 2 teaspoons finely grated lemon zest
- 1/4 cup sour cream
- 3 plums, halved, pitted, and cut into eighths
- Confectioners' sugar, for dusting

Directions:

STEP 1: Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Butter an 8-by-2-inch or a 9-inch cake pan and line bottom with a round of parchment. In a large bowl, whisk together 1 1/2 cups flour, baking soda, and salt.

STEP 2. Using an electric mixer, beat butter and sugars until light and fluffy. With mixer on low, beat in eggs, one at a time, until incorporated; beat in vanilla and lemon zest. Beat in 1/2 the flour mixture, then sour cream. Add remaining flour mixture; mix just until combined.

STEP 3. Spread batter into pan and smooth top with a knife. In a bowl, toss plums with 2 tablespoons flour and sprinkle over batter.

STEP 4. Bake until cake is golden, about 30 minutes; loosely tent with foil and bake until cake pulls away from side of pan and a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean, about 35 minutes more. Let cake cool completely in pan. Run knife around cake edge and remove cake from pan. Dust with confectioners' sugar before serving.

How To Get A Little More GREEN Every Day

Small actions can contribute to big change when it comes to making green choices in the home. Here are some low-stress steps for your day-to-day activities to help reduce your carbon footprint and create a healthier, greener lifestyle.

- Eat wisely. A few simple changes to your daily food habits can have a tremendous impact on the environment. Choose to go 100% veggie or eat less meat. Buy organic and locally grown items when possible and reduce food waste. According to the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, more than one third of all food produced worldwide is wasted (that's a shocking 1.3 billion tonnes per year). In fact, unused food in a landfill is one of the top sources of greenhouse gases.

- Be energy smart. Canadians are the second largest consumers of energy per capita in the world. Reduce your energy consumption by switching to compact fluorescent light (CFL) bulbs, buying low-flow showerheads and fixing leaky windows. Consider getting a home energy audit to see where you can cut back. Check how your appliances measure up with the EnerGuide rating label, and commit to buying Energy Star qualified products.

- Get water wise. Reduce, repair, and retrofit. From installing a low-flow toilet, to using an outdoor rain barrel, to taking shorter showers – there are thousands of ways you can save water at home.

- Travel light. Leave the car at home. If possible, walk, bike or take public transportation. If you must drive, carpool. Buy a fuel-efficient vehicle. Fly less. Air travel has a massive carbon footprint—in fact, it's the mode of freight transport that has the most emissions.

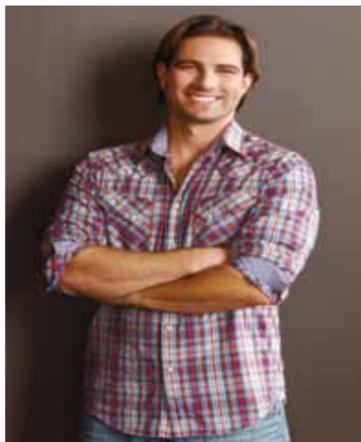

Consider greener transportation options like buses or trains, or travel less altogether and utilize technology like video-conferencing and e-mail.

- Check your trash. The average Canadian produces about 2.2 kilograms of garbage each day—that's over 30 million tonnes of waste in total per year. And the majority ends up in landfills. Be diligent about recycling and composting. Check your municipality website or recycling hotline for details and support the Compost Council of Canada.

- Buy smart. Make your everyday food and beverage purchases with the environment in mind. For example, replace your usual single-serve coffee plastic capsule with an eco-friendly choice, such as 99% biodegradable OneCoffee (also certified organic and fair trade). You will feel good about making an eco-conscious purchase, without compromising on quality. Simple switches in the grocery aisle have a big impact. Buying them means you're doing your part to encourage more and more sustainable products.

Transform Your Home Into A Peaceful Sanctuary

Everyday noise can wreak havoc on our inner peace. It can interrupt thoughts, our quiet conversations, and prevent us from truly relaxing. Furthermore, with TVs, home theatres, computers, video games, stereos and cell phones, our homes are also way too loud. So why not transform the house into a quiet retreat by soundproofing certain rooms?

When renovating, install insulation that will accomplish this for you. Used in professional recording studios, stone-wool insulation is an excellent acoustic barrier that effectively absorbs sound. For home use, industry experts recommend a Roxul product called Safe n' Sound.

It's an easy-to-install material designed for use inside walls, ceilings and floors. For the best soundproofing results, install the Safe n' Sound stone-wool material in your media room, washrooms, laundry room, and in your floor joists. By soundproofing a room it means that the sound is confined to that particular space, leaving the rest of your home undisturbed and your life, uninterrupted.

Spread Kindness

“RAOK” or Random Acts Of Kindness have been gaining popularity throughout the world, thanks to social media. So what is a RAOK? It's a completely selfless act performed by a person wishing to assist an individual or simply make someone else's day. A RAOK can be carried out at any time and is guaranteed to lift your spirits.

Why not try out one of these easy ideas this week and see what results?

- Pay for the person behind you on your morning coffee run
- Compliment a total stranger
- Assist an elderly person by loading their bags into their vehicle
- If you're heading in to the grocery store, why not offer to return someone's cart?
- When you receive good customer service, tell the person's boss
- Hold the door for others
- Teach your children to be kind and giving so they can continue your good habits!

We have all heard those stories of simple, life changing moments. You never know what effect your kindness will have on someone else's day.
